Summary

I am an economist with expertise in empirical research, policy consulting, and litigation support. With 7+ years of experience in large-scale data analysis and 4+ years in project management and leading small teams, I have learned to thrive in collaborative environments to generate evidence-based insights and develop impactful solutions. I specialize in data-driven assessments of digitization, competition, and globalization across a variety of complex high-tech industries, including automotive, electronics, and software.
